

SEND US YOUR WINTER SNAPS

The best of our readers winter weather pictures may feature in the Lancashire Telegraph over the coming weeks or in a special supplement in 2012. Send your pictures to rjohnson@nqnw.co.uk

MEAL

Restaurant's thank you to nurses

NURSES are being offered a free restaurant meal as thanks for working over the festive period.

The Bowling Green, Preston Road, Charnock Richard, near Chorley, is offering a free carvery to all Lancashire nurses between January 9-14.

According to research, 88,000 worked on Christmas Day, meaning 22 per cent of all nurses missed out on precious time spent with friends and family.

As a result, Adam Halliday, manager of the Bowling Green, plans to reward them.

Currently-employed nurses can visit www.crown-carveries.co.uk from Monday, January 9, to download the 'free carvery meal' voucher and present it along with their current ID card.

Adam said: "Nurses spend all year looking after others and it's about time we honoured their dedication."

TOURISM

An exciting year ahead

Learner drivers start early

TUTORIAL Youngsters at a pre-driver day held at the West Pennine Driver Training Centre in Blackburn and run by the Blackburn with Darwen Casualty Reduction Team. Front from left, Phoebe Willan, Jess Evans, Aqib Yousaf and Hannah Whittaker. With them are from the left, instructors, Steve Rhodes and Roger Barfield and Steve Johnson

Cash boost for Ellie trip

SIXTH form centre staff have given a Rishton youngster a fundraising boost.

Staff at Mary's College Blackburn held an old fashioned office party in aid of cerebral palsy sufferer Ellie Leathert and raised £101 towards Ellie's trip to America for an operation to help her walk unaided.

■ THE Sabden panto has been rearranged for the first three days in March after plans to stage it at the end of January were cancelled.

Tickets for Snow White and the Sabden Dwarfs will be on sale soon.

Jump to it

DAREDEVILS in Lancashire are being urged to take part in a mass sky dive event.

The two-mile-high Spring Leap Skydive, in aid of the Stroke Association, takes place next spring. Eleven airfields are taking part nationwide, including Lancaster airfield. For a free informa-

Adventure park